2.5.3 Evaluation-related Grievance Redressal mechanism followed by the Institution

Preamble

"The integrity and transparency of our evaluation process are paramount. This section addresses the robust evaluation-related grievance redressal mechanism adopted by our institution, emphasizing the use of double valuation or multiple valuation methods, accompanied by an appeal process for re-totaling/revaluation and access to answer scripts as part of our redressal system.

Recognizing the importance of fair and accurate evaluation, our institution has established a comprehensive mechanism to address evaluation-related grievances. This system involves the use of double valuation or multiple valuation methods, allowing for a rigorous assessment of answer scripts. Furthermore, our appeal process for re-totaling or revaluation, coupled with the provision of access to answer scripts, empowers students to seek clarification and review their evaluated work."
